Your Vitality?
The essence of life is force. Every breath you breathe, every heart beat, every motion of your hand, takes force. The measure of force we call vitality. If this is lacking, there is loss of flesh, lack of resistive power, a tendency to catch disease easily, especially a tendency to Consumption. For low vitality nothing is better than Scott's Emulsion. It supplies force by furnishing the nourishing, strengthening elements of food in an easily digested form; enriches the blood, and builds up the system. When ordinary food is of no avail, Scott's Emulsion will supply the body with all the vital elements of life.

Two sizes, 50 cts. and $1.00. All druggists. If you will ask for it we will send you a book telling you all about Scott's Emulsion. Free. SCOTT & BOWNE, New York.

—Here is a story of a new engine, slow time and a fast walker, says the Goodland Republic. Tuesday morning Engineer Lon Patrik left Phillipsburg on engine 473, pulling train No. 41. As the train was about to leave a boy stepped up and asked Lon for a ride, but as a new engine does not always promote good temper the applicant was told to get off the earth. When Prairieview was reached, five hours later, the first person Patrik saw was the boy who had asked him for a ride. "How did you get here?" said Lon. "Walked," replied the boy. The engineer got purple in the face, glared at the frightened kid and then burst out: "Get on that train and stay there, you red-headed imp! I don't allow no blankety blank tie counter to out-travel the 473!" N. B.—Prairieview is just 15 miles west of the "burg," and as the boy seemed to be in no hurry, he got on and rode.

—C. D. Heath is one of oldest settlers, and can tell more of the happenings of the past twenty-five years than anyone else. Tuesday he was in a reminiscent mood, and told a story of an event that took place in '72. "I was out hunting in '72 with Ira Draper, and when up in what is now Dayton township, we saw a buffalo calf of about a year old. We had expended all of our ammunition and wanted buffalo meat very bad. In those days I was a runner and I told Ira to start back to camp and I would run the calf down, and lead it home. Ira took our guns and I took after the calf. After a chase of about two hours I cornered the critter, and was about to rope and tie it, when I discovered that a band of Indians on ponies were after me. I made a bride of my suspenders, mounted the calf and rode away from the Indians. They chased me up to near where Jim Murphy lives. Jim and I had built a log cabin and had it pierced with loop holes. I reached the cabin in safety, and drove my buffalo into it, we fought the Indians for several days, killing a dozen or more of them, when they left." "What was done with the calf?" was asked. "Our provisions during the siege gave out and I killed it, and thus again, my life was saved by a buffalo calf," said Mr. Heath's reply. "Some day," said Mr. Heath, "when I feel real well I will tell you fellows a good story about the time Mr. Crow of Kansas City came to town."
